THREE ACCIDENTS ON SATURDAY

Julius Little Broke His Ankle—Alex.
McKee Kicked on Chest and Face—
H. West's Horses Runaway

Saturday was evidently Gleichen's unluckiest day, at least unluckily for a few of our citizens.

That morning Julius Little started for his homestead in Queensdown, having quit the harness business, and was making his trip south with his first load of lumber for his new buildings. He had got a few miles out on the reserve and was walking along driving his team when some tin dishes fell off the load, which frightened the horses and they ran away. Julius held on to the reins as long as he could, but finally fell and a wheel of the wagon passed over his ankle, breaking it at the joint. He states he lay on the ground for an hour and a half before a man with a team came along and brought him to town. The horses when they got away came back to the Sarnia Livery Stables, where Mr. James at once started out to look for Julius and met him coming to town. His ankle was also badly sprained, but he is now improving rapidly under Dr. Farquharson's care.

The same afternoon H. West's team ran away and made a lively trip around town. The team broke the rig in many places, but fortunately no person was injured.

That evening Alex. McKee got a nasty kick from a horse in the Gleichen Livery Stables while attending to the horses. He was about to go up to the animal in the stall when it kicked him in the chest, and glancing caught his face making a big cut in his jaw which necessitated Dr. Rose putting in seven stitches. It is said his chest bone was also broken and he has suffered a great deal of pain, but he is now able to walk about.

DIRECTORS MEETING

A meeting of the directors of the Gleichen District Agricultural Association was held last Thursday evening, when the principal business discussed was the prize list of the recent exhibition. A few explanations were made by the secretary and treasurer, which showed that in making up the prize list for The Call the non-registered horses had been omitted, but which now appear corrected elsewhere in this issue. The prize list was finally accepted and Treasurer F. H. Blackburn was accordingly ordered to pay the prize winners and distribute the diplomas. It was decided that each person should sign the prepared list at the time of receiving their prizes in order to have a complete record.

The correspondence read by the secretary included a number of important letters which were discussed a little and most of the matters contained therein laid over until this evening, when it was arranged to hold another meeting.

One letter from the Provincial Government asked that the Association set a date for institute meetings, when the government would send speakers to address the meetings. In accordance with this a motion was passed setting the date for the first Farmers' Institute meeting in Gleichen for next Monday, Nov. 9th, subject to the approval of the department at Edmonton, but this has since been postponed.

Another letter from the Government asked that a Seed Fair be held in Gleichen this fall and stated that if one was held the department would supply the prize money if the Association would only make up a list and conduct the fair as instructed by the department. It was decided to hold the seed fair and a committee was appointed to take up the matter and report at the next meeting.

A motion was unanimously passed that the secretary should write Mr. J. B. Legatt expressing the thanks of the Association for the use of his building for the recent exhibition. Other motions were passed thanking the president and secretary for their excellent work in connection with the exhibition. The purchase or lease of fair grounds was discussed at some length, but this and a number of accounts and other matters were deferred until to-night—Thursday.

Omitted From Prize List

By an oversight the non-registered grade horses were omitted from the prize list last week and were as follows:

Grade mare with foal at foot, 1st Duncan Clark, 2nd F. Daw, jr.; highly commended R. J. Burne.

Grade dry mare any age, 1st John Clark, jr.; highly commended H. B. Biggs.

An error was also made in the lemon pies as Mrs. McPhee won second prize in this.

THANK J. B. LEGATT

Editor Gleichen Call.

Sir,—The directors and members of the Gleichen District Agricultural Association desire through the medium of your paper to extend their thanks to Mr. J. B. Legatt for the great assistance rendered the society during the recent exhibition by him in loaning his building for exhibits, etc.

H. R. CORY, Secretary.

Wm. Ewing died suddenly at R. Landell's farm, just north of town last Thursday night under the most distressing and sad circumstances. He came here three years ago with Poe & Young, worked all summer for Mr. Landell and had made every arrangement to start for his home in England on Friday, the day of his funeral. He had been complaining for some days of not being as well as usual and on Thursday night coming in from the barn said he was afraid he was very sick and immediately began to bleed profusely from the mouth and nose, caused it is said from a hemorrhage. The sight Mr. and Mrs. Landell beheld was truly awful. Their being no other men in the house Mrs. Landell said she could not stay alone but would go for a doctor, which she did, but by the time Dr. Rose arrived the unfortunate man was dead.

The first carload of beets to be shipped from Gleichen this year is now being loaded from the Demonstration Farm, from where at least another car will be shipped, while several others of our farmers will soon be ready to make their first shipments. The beets are much larger and better this year than last and a far greater quantity has been grown than in any former year. The success attained this year has greatly encouraged all who have grown them as well as many others who have been watching them closely and it is fully expected a big acreage will be sown next year. After the beets are shipped and the results obtained from the factory The Call is promised a report for publication of the exact results, which should prove most interesting.

W. D. Trego has now listed over 20 chartered members for a camp of the Modern Woodmen of America in Gleichen and expects to have the society organized here within the next two or three weeks. It is a very strong society and will be a good thing for this town and those who enroll.

Robt. Rowe went up to Calgary Monday to attend court. His trial is set for today. He feels sure he will not be hung for shooting that dear old cow and his many friends hope to see him get off easy.

JOLLY OLD UNCLE JOSH

His Great Generosity Towards His Newly Married Niece Polly

A Realistic Romance of Gleichen in Which a Number of Our Prominent Business Men Take a Very Conspicuous Part.

Copyrighted by W. S. Guthrie.

"Miss Summers—Polly—1—1—er—dare I—?" But the speaker took a header over bashfulness, only to hear a sweet

"Yes, Charley."

"Can I aspire to—er—to—that—is?"

Again a lapse into silence, followed by an encouraging

"Yes, Charley."

"Oh, if I might only hope to er—to—"

Another failure of language. It was seemingly a hopeless case, and might have been, only for a demure

"Charley, I have said 'yes' twice, and if you mean it, I mean it too, and—"

And to this day that young man will insist that he popped the question.

All this happened away "down east" and it wasn't long before there was a wedding. Not much longer before there was a letter from Polly's Uncle Josh,

(Hon. Joshua Turner, an old pioneer of Gleichen) rich, generous and level headed, who wrote effusively of his delight at her exhibition of what he called "grit," and he proposed that if the young people would locate in Gleichen

he would start them up in life, as a wedding gift, having fully explained that this is the best spot in the world for young married people to get a good start. Of course they accepted, and were soon bidding their friends adieu.

A few weeks subsequent to the above conversation a travel stained party arrived in Gleichen. Our friend, Uncle Josh, was in charge and he led the party straightway to the Gleichen Hotel.

"We'll go to the Gleichen Hotel," said he, "cause that's the popular place and strictly first-class. I have known Mr. Gillespie, the proprietor for years and he is mine host after mine own heart; being endowed with that delightful instinct that makes a guest feel at home, comfortable, contented and in mighty good luck. The house is one of convenience; the apartments are well furnished and the cuisine—well, that hotel is noted for its excellent table, so I have engaged rooms here until your own house is in readiness."

"After breakfast is over," continued the old man, "I must take you for a little drive and then we'll proceed to buy your outfit. To expedite matters

I'll just call up the Gleichen Livery and Feed Stables and have Mr. Wishart, our enterprising livery man, send us around a rig." When the handsome carriage, with elaborate trappings and prancing horses drew up in front of the hotel Polly declared it to be a turnout fit for a queen. "Yes Sir—ee," replied

Uncle Josh, "that is a purty neat rig—the three S's, Speed, Safety and Style is Wishart's coat of arms, and best of all, the rates are mighty reasonable. His wedding party and funeral equipments are unsurpassed. It was in a stylish turnout indeed that the rounds of the city were made.

"No grass shall grow under our feet," remarked Uncle Josh, "so what's first on the program?" "Oh goodness knows there's lots to buy," remarked Polly.

"Then suppose we buy 'lots' first," quoth Charley without turning a hair.

"Well, I sure you've got a great head for business," laughed Uncle Josh, "we'll just stop at J. L. Laycock's real estate office. I can always depend upon him for bargains in real estate as he never holds out false lights to induce people to buy, but what he tells you about property, may be set down as solid facts.

Mr. Laycock controls a large list of desirable residences as well as farm properties, and his judgment on the 'good things' is par excellence." Accordingly Mr. Laycock accompanied the trio on their drive and before returning had sold to Uncle Josh, for his wards a cozy little home.

"And in the matter of insurance," the old gentleman continued, "That is also of importance. You will want a risk on your new house, and goods; but you can't be too careful about getting it in a reliable agency. My old friend Mr. Laycock not only has lines of the solidest and best companies, but he is an expert and trustworthy underwriter. He has a large number of companies, all of which belong to the old reliable category, being well known for their prompt and satisfactory adjustment of losses. It's better to be safe than sorry and you'll surely be safe in the Dominion Fire Insurance Company.

"Having already provided a cage for the bird," said Uncle Josh, "now the first thing we'll look after will be furnishings for it." Hereupon Polly energetically declared that she had heard so much about C. J. Bray that she had decided to go there. The result was that they were ushered into such a bewildering display that the girl was at first at a loss how to select. But she soon yielded to the seductiveness of a magnificent parlor suite, a bed room set in oak, golden finish, that would do credit to old Mr. Klondyke himself.

To this she added an easy rocker for Uncle Josh, and didn't forget a most convenient and ornamental writing desk for "Hubby" Charley, having come to the conclusion that Mr. Bray's prices were below the very whisper of competition.

"A pretty good start," said the old man, "and now we'll take a look at the store department, where Polly's housewife's instincts will have full play in the marvels of kitchen apparatus. There is not an establishment in the country that carries a more comprehensive stock of cooking machinery," remarked Uncle Josh. "Every possible piece of kitchen furniture from a tin dipper to a cooking range is here in all styles and variety."

If Polly fails to accomplish wonders in the culinary art, it will not be for want of superior cooking utensils, for she purchased a Moffatt range with all other equipments needed in a well regulated kitchen and a Bonny Oak heater, all of which Uncle Josh paid for with delight

'cause he knew C. J. Bray had treated him all right, just as he treats everybody.

"Well, Scat my!" exclaimed Uncle Josh, with a David Harum accent, as they reached the street, "I must run over to the Canadian Bank of Commerce and get another check book. Come along with me and get acquainted with Mr. McKie and his staff, for of course you will do business with them and it is always more pleasant to be personally acquainted with the people you do business with. This bank is as solid as the base of the universe, is managed on safe conservative lines, and has a strong working capital. You will find them ever ready to extend any accommodations compatible with business principles."

"Guess I'll open an account with the Canadian Bank of Commerce right away," replied Charley and he did.

After it is visited, Uncle Josh suggested

a resort to some place of refreshment. At the refreshment table the old man waxed philosophical. "Never neglect your larder," said he. "That important adjunct to housekeeping controls masculine temper. To that end you must patronize a grocer on whom you can depend for honest goods. Through a long term of years I have found J. A. E. Beaupre, of the Pioneer Store, perfectly reliable. You will find him careful and and always fully stocked with every line of staple and fancy groceries, fresh and first-class, no shelf worn goods there, while the prices are down to brass tacks. To keep peace in this family get all your groceries at the Pioneer Store."

"Oh, say, Uncle," exclaimed Polly, "where can I go for dry goods? This dress is hardly suitable, I must admit."

"Well, my girl, if you want to select from one of the most popular establishments in the town, I will direct you to the Pioneer Store for that as well as for the groceries. Mr. Beaupre carries a stock of dry goods that for variety and real value is seldom seen outside of the largest metropolitan cities. He has all the latest weaves in fashionable dress goods and you are sure to be guided right in your selections. You will find him pleasant to deal with and his employees polite and expert, while the prices cannot be duplicated." It did not take Polly long to tell a bargain when she saw one. She got a handsome dress, with all the necessary trimmings.

"Halt!" commanded Uncle Josh, as the party came in front of A. R. Yates drug and book store. "Walk right in." "Why Uncle, we're not sick, and—" "Guess I know that," laughed the old man, "but I suspect it won't be long before this young man begins to take an interest in matters of paregoric and—" "Uncle!—" "We'll go in anyway and get acquainted, besides Polly may find some toilet articles she wants."

"Yes, and I must have some stationery, Uncle Josh," quoth Polly, "and—" "Yes, and a Bible with a reasonably big family register," interrupted the old man, "so we'll go in here. You'll find many articles indispensable for the parlor as well as the library there, and as for variety Mr. Yates has an unequalled stock." So here Polly's purchases included perfumes, toilet articles, miscellaneous books, fancy stationery, all the latest agonies, bric-a-brac of all manner for the centre-table, and finding an immense assortment of magazines, periodicals and newspapers, she subscribed for everything in sight. Polly remarked to the generous old uncle, "Why I don't know when to quit buying. Every thing I find here at A. R. Yates' just strikes my fancy and is so cheap."

"Oh me! Oh my!" ejaculated Polly as they halted before a show window, "what a perfectly lovely slipper." "Yes," said Uncle Josh, "the Gleichen Trading Co.'s stock can't be equalled in style and extent in this section. Go in, look it over and get acquainted. Pick out what you want and I'll foot the bill." It might have been policy not to have extended that invitation, had not Uncle Josh, known what wise economy it is to trade at this store for Polly found goods and prices so seductive that she purchased an outfit from a pretty slipper to a handsome walking boot. Charlie invested in genteel blue shoes, while Uncle Josh indulged in a stout boot, with rubbers for the ground. No one needing footwear can resist the styles and prices offered by the Gleichen Trading Co.

"Well great smoke, Charley, where in the name of creation did you get that ope? Th' 's about the 'shest snipe that ever came in contact with my ol' factory nerve," laughingly remarked Uncle Josh. "Step in here to Uncle's Billard and Cigar store and get a cigar, then you'll have a gentleman's smoke. Uncle takes great pride to keep all the leading brands, both imported and domestic, and consequently his place grows more popular every day." Charley was so well pleased with the cigar Uncle Josh treated him to that he bought a whole box and advised his wife to remember the brand when she got his next birth-day present, not forgetting to also make note of Uncle's fine display of other cigars, tobaccos, pipes, etc.

"Well, I reckon that cottage needs a few improvements," sentimentally remarked Uncle Josh as they climbed into the carriage. "You ought to have a little portico on the front anyway, so I guess we'll strike right out for the Gleichen Lumber Co. they're the best dealers in that line. They handle every thing needed in the category of building material, from the brick for the foundation to the shingles for the roof, including doors, windows and moulding. Mr. Campbell is most pleasant to deal with, and he don't want all the money a fellow's got either."

Uncle Josh made investigations as to the price of materials and found that the Gleichen Lumber Co. was selling stuff so reasonable he concluded to let go the cottage improvements and build a more commodious residence, much to the delight of Polly, although it sent glimmering her first idea of "love in a cottage."

Having come to the conclusion about the larger and more palatial house, it occurred to the old gentleman as they were not going to build a chicken coop or a barn, it would be a wise thing to employ experienced architects—someone in whose hands the matter might be placed with perfect and speedy results. "I have it, I have the architect right in my eye," he exclaimed. "G. Wakefield is the very man, he has designed some of the principle business blocks and elegant houses around this section. You remember those fine houses I showed you this morning? Well Geo. Wakefield drew up those plans and executed 'em, and he didn't monkey around a whole year either." Wakefield was soon contracted with to build the house for Polly and Charley.

"And another place I wish to take you children, is to E. C. Henroth's flour and feed store," remarked the old man. "Your introduction to Gleichen would not be half complete without. Talk about flour, why bless you there ain't no flour that can come up to Prairie Pride handled by him. All good housewives around this section won't use anything but Prairie Pride. Then as to feed, this man is headquarters for that. He handles everything from golden oat-down to corn cobs and serves customers with promptness and despatch. I've been dealing with E. C. Henroth a long time, and I tell you he is a good man to tie to, and I always did believe in patronizing home industry."

Weeds and Good Roads

Gleichen, Nov. 2nd, 1908.

Editor Gleichen Call.

Dear Sir:—As one of your subscribers, a resident and tax payer of this district, I beg space in your most valuable paper for the expression of a few of my thoughts concerning the welfare of this new and grand part of the country.

Now, I do not want anyone to think that I am doing this with a spirit of fault-finding, or that I am driving my remarks at any individual.

We have in this district a wee child who has and will be known by the name of "Irrigation" and is destined to outlive his parents.

Now this lad will some day grow to be a man, and his bad habits will also grow, and if not kept under control in his youth will be very hard to govern when he has grown up. He is a most welcome laborer and will perform well if handled with proper care.

Those in whose care he is placed should be and are responsible for his conduct.

The reason just passed has been one that required very little irrigation, but there has been enough for me to see what the results would be if much irrigation was required.

Now for fear some may not know just what I mean I will make myself more clear.

I have noticed that very few have provided ditches to carry off the waste water after it passes from their farms. It goes wherever it will in the public roads, and their neighbors farms located on lower ground. Our roads are one of the beauties of the country and nothing looks worse than a mud hole every few yards.

May we all try to beautify the land in which we are living, and not damage the traveling public or public property, and we will find we will curtail many bad impressions and personal troubles.

Another thing I might mention is our weed law. I believe this is a good thing for the people, but it seems there should be a way of getting at all a like. The farm I bought had never been farmed, but I find in the first crop and on parts where no crop has been raised many bad weeds that were brought in by contractors, and I am informed that many pounds of seed were shipped in and fed on the prairie this summer.

Yours very truly,
 N. N. HAYES.

A correspondent writes that Jas. Dillon was almost scared to death recently while out fighting a prairie fire. He was working as only an Irishman knows how when he happened to glance around him and to his surprise there was a mountain sheep close by. "Bedads", said Jim, "but you'd make a fine chop for the loike o' me an' the b-boys an' Oi'll be after tashin' ye to rubber behind me, ye broot. Begorry ye can't scare an Irishman so aisy as ye think. Take that and that, and the loike o' that." And Jim struck the monster with his chieftain's knife on the spot, and when the fire was extinguished, dragged the "broot" home to the Two Bar ranch, where he is enjoying fresh mutton. No doubt Jim will build a poem on the "Adventure of a Wild Irishman with a Mountain Sheep."

1 Magnet Cream Separator nearly new, 600 lbs. per hour capacity, Cream Bottles, Dairy Ware, Etc.

Also may be included, if desired, a number of early hatched Pullets, all white birds, pure bred W. P. Rock hens and pure bred white Leghorns, bred from the best layers I could get, some of them fit to win, also incubator and brooder.

The above will be sold to remove from the place, and is a living in itself. The butter, cream, eggs, etc., are all sold to regular customers, who are the most particular people.

I sell more butter and farm produce to regular customers than any one else around, and I am always crowded to meet the demand. I did not compete at the fair for butter because some one would have been 2 lbs. short. Would like to sell to some one who can make first-class butter as my old customers who have stayed with me so long are entitled to some consideration. It can be arranged for the cows to stay a while, until the buyer can arrange accommodation. I have also several tons of mangels and an abundance of hay.

Have also for sale separate, 10 of this year's calves; 1 steer coming three; a pair or Clyde colts coming three, horse and filly, very gentle; 1 saddle horse, and a lot of other useful material.

My homestead will also be offered for sale, water front, 50 or 60 acres of the best land can be irrigated direct from stream at small expense, independent of the irrigation company. Will consider a proposition to rent on shares.

To-day the Blackfoot Indians receive their annual treaty pay and our merchants are preparing for a big business.

A man in a neighboring town who took a city paper in preference to a country paper because he got more paper for the money, was attracted by the advertisement of a fire escape which would be forwarded on receipt of $2. He sent the cash and in a few days received a copy of the New Testament.
